KEZAR FALLS.

The Celebration.

In the good old times in many a country town and village the night before the Fourth was rendered a hideous night, worse to sick than well, by the explosion of cannon and clanging of brazen metal, staid old church and hysterical school bells being rung by profane hands.

There is much to be thankful for in the dawn of the sinner Fourth which illumines the country at large and Kezar Falls, in the vanguard of the new move, after a night of repose, began the day with a pageant and celebration which will go on record as surpassing any celebration ever occurring in town.

About 8 o'clock the beautifully decorated floats of every order or organization began to gather in School street, Dr. E. R. Chellie, marshal of the day, at the head of the procession.

The Kezar Falls brass band furnished excellent music, the Goddess of Liberty, a statue on a float, was in line, and then came the different floats: Aurora Temple, representing the Sisterhood; the Daisy Club, as fine a bunch of daisies as ever the sun shone on; the Sunday school, with its wealth of coming men and women; a pair of yearling steers.

Wonderfully well broken and representing Frank Stevens dealer in meats: Myron Ridlon, druggist in an advertising float; a gypsy encampment of horrors; a dear little pony and vehicle with two occupants, driver, footman and outrider; the Redmen, a float with trees and evergreen trees, and noble young knaves in war paint and feathers; the L. M. R. C. and the Y. W. T. C., the K. of P. clad in velvet taint; Rough Riders, who added greatly to the charm of the procession; the fire and drum float, the W. C. T. U. Roy Lord and Bert Chapman furnished much amusement as a colored couple.

Each and every one deserved a prize, but as there were not enough prizes to go around the judges were obliged to discriminate.

The judges who performed the difficult task were J. Merrill Lord, Mrs. Harry Jameson, and Rev. H. A. Pearce.

The best decorated vehicle, the pony float, representing Kezar Falls Library, won first prize, a ten dollar gold piece.

The Ladies Magazine and Reading club combined with the Young Women's Thursday Club won the second, a five dollar gold piece, and the prize for the prettiest costume was awarded Ina Stanley.

At the mass meeting following the award of prizes there were eloquent speeches by Rev. Cymbrid Hughes, Rev. Johnston of West County and Rev. H. A. Pearce of Conway Center. Dr. S. A. McDaniel read the Declaration of Independence. Ellen Libby recited "Old Glory" and the National songs were sung and played.

The afternoon and evening were well filled with races, and ball game between Kezar Falls and Fort William, all winding up with fireworks in the evening.

There were many out of town visitors among them being: L. F. Woodcock of the Biddeford Journal; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hatch of Medford, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. French and son Clayton, Cambridge, Mass.; also Mrs. William Babcock of same place; Rev. W. M. O'Neill and family, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Watkins of same city.

John S. Newbegin's health seems to be gradually failing.

W. A. Garner and family are occupying the Holiday House at Camp Ellis.

WEST BUCKFIELD.

Beryl Harlow is visiting friends in Byron.

H. W. Phillips is harvesting his crop of strawberries.

Ellis Briggs, Miss Hardy and sister, Ethel, were at S. E. Briggs, last week.

Mildred Sampson of Hartford and Henry Sturtevant were at A. S. Hall's, the 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, Ralph and Charlie Cooper and Fred Pearson went to Portland the 4th, by auto.

Edith Bradbury, Mrs. A. Will Moore and children of Norway have been spending a few days on the farm with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bradbury.

Ben Taylor lost his dwelling house and barn by fire, Saturday morning.

Tests of house all burned as Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and children were away from home when the fire was discovered.

Very dry. Farmers have begun haying, Will Fogg and hired man exchanging work this week with John Smith, Jim Richards working for John Smith, Roy Baswell working for A. F. Mason, Harry Buck and hired man haying for B. A. Hutchinson, at Buckfield.

NORTH NEWRY.

The little sprinkle of rain we got brightens gardens some.

There has been no church meeting for a number of Sundays.

Bessie Brown, who has come home from New York, is teaching the little school in Grafton.

Many autos tour through here to see the country, also many auto fishing parties are seen every Sunday.

Charles Douglass has finished sawing Mr. H. Thibault of Bethel, who is going to build a house on Main street of that town.

Raymond Cummings is coming home to help his father hay.

Abel Andrews is going to cut the grass on the Cole farm.

The hay crop will be very light and not much old hay summered over this year.

Lucian Andrews and Leeland Waterhouse have been helping Del Cummings repair his dam.

Miss Dean, who has been teaching school in New Hampshire, has finished and returned home.

Strawberry blossoms were very plenty last spring. They have disappeared and scarcely any leaves to be found.

Frank Condon of Keastville, Mass., has come down with his family to spend the summer at his summer home near Hunt's Corner.

RID YOUR CHILDREN OF WORMS.

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath, are symptoms that indicate worms.

Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. James Crockett, entertained their son, Herbert, and wife, of South Paris, Sunday.

Mrs. Curtis Abbott is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, Coffin, at Mechanic Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Bartlett entertained his nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bartlett, of Lewiston, Sunday.

Wake up and Build.

Do we take enough notice of our own actions or are we just with our neighbor or are we not? Now say John has been to church for two years. Will said, "Whitney dog, trying to make folks think he's religious. He could swear when he was a boy and drink cider." Then you see his neighbor Henry and you say, "How is John?" and with a smile he replies, "He has found God, he hasn't been drunk for two years and I haven't heard him swear for a long time, and they say he reads in the Bible each night. He's my right-hand man."

The trouble is too many want to be will. They have not read the sermon on the Mount, or else leave out the first of the 7th chapter of St. Matthew. "Judge not that ye be not judged, for with what judgment ye judge ye shall be judged, and with what measure ye mete it shall be measured out unto you again."

Now you must agree with me that that is not so hard a command after all if we want to be respectable citizens and no one wants to have people say, "the help to hold the world together and that's all."

"He shall know them by their fruits" Mat. 7:16. Are we not known by our own fruits? Are we not building our own future? And are we not building the character of the next generation?

Some one has said, "Bring up a child in the way that he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it." And isn't that so? It is the men of tomorrow that will come give way to the girl of today (the woman of tomorrow).

Let us turn over a new leaf and look at its best side and never turn it back. Press onward and upward. Lift up and keep your eye ever on Him Who has said, "I am the way, the truth and the life."

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." Mat. 7:12. "For what shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul, or what can a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Let us wake up to our duty which we owe the men and women of tomorrow, their building is in our hands. J. I. S.

Service

Counts!

The million dollar "Hump" at Mechanicsville is the latest development in freight yard construction.

A freight train is backed up the slight incline to the "Hump." There the train is broken up.

The cars are then carried by gravity each to its classified track.

The older method required backing the entire train to place one car.

This is only one of many ways devised to give you the best freight service on the continent.

Ask Any Sickle Smoker Why

he sticks to Sickle plug and slices off each pipeful as he needs it, when he could get tobacco already cut up, in packages. He'll tell you, "because the Sickle way is the only way to get fresh tobacco, that smokes cool and sweet, and doesn't bite the tongue." He knows.

Tobacco that is cut up at the factory gets dried up on its way to you. Result—it burns fast and hot, and "bites." When you cut your own tobacco off the Sickle plug, you are well repaid for a minute's work by fresh tobacco—because all the flavor and moisture are pressed into the plug and held in by the natural leaf wrapper.

Get a plug of Sickle at your dealer's today. Notice how much more tobacco you get, when you don't have to pay for a package.

Escape from Jail.

Carl S. Lawson escaped from jail, Thursday afternoon. Lawson and a young man were arrested in Bridgton on April and after arrest acknowledged breaking into the Bill store in Brownfield and a summer cottage in Cornish, and they were bound over for the October term of court.

Lawson had been around Brownfield for some time and the people had confidence in him and felt he had been let into this affair by another fellow. At the jail he had been employed as a trusty and lately had been in the kitchen to work with Joseph Lieberman, whose term was nearly finished.

It is customary to allow the kitchen men after they are through work to sit out of doors, and Thursday afternoon, after dinner, while sitting there, Lawson remarked that there were strawberries and raspberries over the wall. Lieberman was reading and paid no attention to him. When finishing his reading he called to him, but he made no reply and the matter was reported to the sheriff's office.

Sheriff Frothingham was with jailer Titus at the time. The shower which came up about that time delayed the work, but as soon as they could Sheriff Frothingham and Jailer Titus took an auto and went around the piece of woods which lies back of the county building, notifying the people along the way. The rest of the afternoon till dark was spent searching as thoroughly as possible through the woods.

The next morning they found tracks which seem to show where he crossed the Rumford road, but they lost the track on the other side of the road.

Lawson is about 23 years of age, 6 ft. tall, smooth face, and when he left wore a suit of the regulation striped prison trousers without a coat.

EAST WATERFORD.

Mr. Johnson.

The community was shocked and saddened to learn of the death of Ira Johnson, an honored and respected citizen of North Fryeburg, who died suddenly July 5, 1913.

Mr. Johnson was born Dec. 3, 1838, in the town of Norway. He was the son of Ira and Mary (Torne) Johnson. His boyhood days were spent on his father's farm, where he laid the foundation for a rugged and manly constitution.

In 1859 he married Malissa J. Morrill, and came to live on the farm formerly owned and cleared by his father, who was one of the first settlers of Norway. For forty years he labored hard, bringing the farm to a modern state of cultivation besides working in company with J. E. McIntire, of Waterford, for many years, in the meat, cattle and lumber business.

He was educated in the schools of Waterford and Norway, teaching several terms in his old home district, always improving every opportunity to learn something. He made a great study of geology and astronomy, especially the latter and delighted in teaching his children about the stars.

In politics Mr. Johnson was always a Democrat, serving the town of Norway as selectman for several years.

He was a charter member of Oxford Lodge, I. O. O. F., at North Waterford, for many years taking an active part and filling the chairs in a most efficient manner. He was also a member of Kezar Valley Encampment.

In 1890 he moved to one of the large interval farms of North Fryeburg where for over thirty years he has made his home. Possessed of a sunny disposition, a whole soul, charitable and kind, he made a host of friends, both young and old, but for a few years past, feeling that he had earned a respite from toil, it was his custom to spend several weeks each summer with his family at Camp Blewheast, Kezar Lake. It was while here, and apparently in his usual health, that the summons came and it was here that the funeral services were held, conducted by Rev. H. H. Hoyt of East Hiram. The many floral tributes testifying to the esteem in which he was held by all who knew him.

Many friends, real friends, to mourn his loss. Besides these, the deceased leaves a wife, three children, eight grandchildren, two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Lillian Johnson of North Fryeburg, Mrs. Lillian J. Fride of East Waterford, Mrs. Eva M. Hutholts of North Fryeburg, a niece, Ida M. Bumpus, who always lived in his family, ten grandchildren, and two great grandchildren. He also leaves two sons, Mr. and Mrs. McIntire and sisters, Mrs. Estie Merrill of East Waterford.

He was a great reader, often reading aloud to his family. The poem below is the last he ever read.

Why be so wedded to the vain and earthly,
The passing breeze that goes and comes no more;
Why cling to scenes and trials so unworthy
When there are joys and glories by the score?
Why let the joys depart and not the sadness,
Why keep the thoughts that bring the drearied pain?
The broken heart that banished the gladness
Of one but thought so, would be whole again.
Cast all your burdens on the All-wise Giver,
And think no more of grief or things ill;
Will come, and all earth's sins and sorrows
Griefs of past years have not a right to harm us.
They but belong to times and years long fled;
Sins of past days have not a right to charm us.
So let the dead past bury all its dead.

SAVED FROM OPERATIONS

Two Women Tell How They Escaped the Surgeon's Knife by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Swarthmore, Penn. — "For fifteen years I suffered untold agony, and for one period of nearly two years I had hemorrhages and the doctors told me I must have an operation, but I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am in good health now. I am all over the Change of Life and cannot praise your Vegetable Compound too highly. Every woman should take it at that time. I recommend it to both old and young for female troubles." — Mrs. EMILY SUMMERSGILL, Swarthmore, Pa.

Baltimore, Md. — "My troubles began with the loss of a child, and I had hemorrhages for four months. The doctors said an operation was necessary, but I dreaded it and decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has made me a well woman and I feel strong and do my own work." — Mrs. J. R. PICKING, 1260 Sargent St., Baltimore, Md.

Since we guarantee that all testimonials which we publish are genuine, it is not fair to suppose that if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the virtue to help these women it will help any other woman who is suffering in a like manner?

Capt. Jack Blair.

By Dr. Elizabeth F. Perry.

Captain Jack was the Captain and owner of the good ship Nancy, an East India trading vessel. For thirty years he had past most of his life upon the waves and each voyage more successful than the last, yielding in those days of long ago, quite a fortune.

He loved the sea, but in his big heart there was room for other loves and dreams of his dear ones often came to charm his sleep and fill his waking moments with a longing to be with them. He was indulging these fancies one day, as his ship was loaded and ready to start on its long trip from the Orient, when an old woman in a black cloak and hood, leaning upon her cane, came upon the gang-plank, and stepped on deck and went directly to the Captain and curtly said: "Let me cross your ship, but a penny in it I will tell your fortune."

The Captain looked at her and feeling cheerful, put a penny in her hand and the woman crossed it with her finger, and then put the penny in her pocket, and drew a long breath and crossing her chest said:

"O my! you have a big fortune. I must tell the truth so don't blame me. You have much wealth on your ship. You have two boxes, one wears the wedding ring, the other is your sweetheart. Your true wife is Polly Blair. The other, is May Fielding, but she goes by the name of Ninnett D. Odley. You love her with passion, and Polly with a pure love. Ninnett cares for you only what you pay for."

"Stop old hag; you are lying to me. She loves me for myself. I will have you flogged if you say another word against Ninnett."

The old woman laughed and said: "You cannot hurt me; I am protected by invisible power, and directed to save you. Now listen. I am sent by the great Magi, who rules intelligence and only for man's good, and he tells me this. You have two dangers hanging in the clouds of destiny. One is Ninnett and the other is pirates, which will swarm within the coming twelve months. This must be your last voyage to our shores, if your life and property is of any value to you."

"I am no coward, I have met freebooters, and they were glad to get away. You see that my ship carries her protection, and I have no fear."

"You will have cause for fear before you reach your native land, and when you get to your home you will find that I have told you sad truths. How do I know all things unless revealed from higher power than feeble man. I am only a vibrating instrument; sent to save, not to injure mankind. You have a human serpent coiled about you ready at any moment to sting you to the heart. You have also a trusting true companion, one who would shield you with his life. Test them as I direct. The picture is before me, true to life. After a severe struggle upon the waves you will reach your home, and to your sweetheart, as a poor man, having lost all your wealth, ask aid from her—ask for some of the money that you gave her, and she will prove how much she loves you. Then go to Polly, with the same story, and prove her love."

The superstition of sailors is potent. They watch every sign of good or evil. They believe that "Mother Carey's chickens" bore evil and Capt. Jack was not strong enough in his courage to resist the power of the siren that sang the song of his fate.

"I don't believe one word that you have told me. You have been talking to some of my men and gained the story of my life, and if I find that you have lied to me I will, when I come again, have you flogged until you beg for your life."

The old woman laughed and said: "Oh, no, you did your last flogging ten years ago, when you had Peter Fion flogged for not obeying you and you found him dead in the hold."

"How did you know about that?" asked Jack.

"It is revealed to me. I hold your destiny in my grasp. You cannot hide a single act."

Mystified by the mystic revelations, he gave himself up to wonder and doubt. In his soul he asked, "Is this the voice of God through the mouth of a woman?"

Capt. Jack sat in quiet thought, when the woman said:

"You are struggling between doubt and belief. Now my son, have faith for every prophecy that falls from my lips is an oracle sent from a power that we must not doubt. My mission is finished. Farewell."

The strange being left, as she came, leaving Capt. Jack in a maze.

"I don't believe her, but I'll prove her right or wrong. And to show that she had instilled a little faith in her words, he had his guns and ammunition looked to, and a certain little fear crept into his heart. They had with full sail ploughed the waves for two weeks, when a little vessel crossed their course, raised a black flag; upon Capt. Jack's soul thrilled with tiger courage, and shouting "All hands on deck. That is a 'privateer'—If they trouble us, we must fight! Look to your weapons. No white flag! Send a warning shot through the iron throat of the fore-deck cannon. This just warms me up boys."

Capt. Jack rubbed his hands as the old gun sent a big ball which nearly reached the pirate ship, and the black flag disappeared. "We seem too much for them. They are sailing out of our way but we must be on the lookout for they are sly cusses, and may try to surprise us."

When he had relapsed into a quiet mood, he said within himself:

"She said we would have a struggle but if it passes off like this we will have little trouble, but if all is true that she said there will be a life struggle that will last forever."

Days went on and no sign of enemies, until one bright clear morning, he sighted land, and the spot where all his hopes and fears dwelt.

"Can I play the part that the weird creature dictated, and perchance lose my sweet Ninnett? I cannot believe that all her fondness was but the shadow of money and woman's tricks, but I will, I must prove it."

With this resolve he looked with pain and pleasure at the distance, and reckoned the hour of his anchoring "Nancy" outside and going to land in his smock. When he reached the spot that his mind indicated he landed by a ship-aboy. First came a small anchor and rest. Lower the smock—Jim Rollins came with me."

His orders were promptly attended to and when he left the boat at the dock he told him to wait his return. In his pea-jacket and tarpoblin hat, he went to the home of Ninnett. His heart bounded with hope and fear, and trembling like a culprit he peered through a friendly rent in the curtain that was closely drawn and what he saw filled him with jealous terror.

His beautiful Ninnett was sitting upon the knee of Paul Bretton and her arms around his neck. Capt. Jack rapped upon the door and instantly the light went out of the room and only a dim light in the hall. She came to the door and Jack stepped in and when she saw him she exclaimed:

"My darling when did you arrive?" and threw her arms around him. He then said in a choked voice:

"My Ninnett do you truly love me, or do you only care for what I give you?"

"How can you ask when you know that I love you for yourself?"

"Would you love me if I were to lose all that I have?"

"Certainly darling. Now what do you bring me this time?"

"I brought you nothing for I have nothing to bring. I have lost everything and if you love me as much as you do, you will give me some money for I am in need."

"If you have nothing to give me, I have nothing to give you."

"Won't you give me a kiss, Ninnett?"

"Why should I give a kiss to a beggar unless he is young and handsome, and you look horrid. You had better go to your wife, perhaps she will be glad to care for you."

"Well, good bye, perhaps Paul Bretton will give you money and pleasure."

With this shot at her infidelity he left, and a few blocks brought him to his own door. He raised the old lion-head knocker and his wife opened the door. When she saw who it was she exclaimed with true delight:

"My dear husband, when did you arrive? I looked for the report of the Nancy in the Shipping Bulletin. I am more than glad to see you. Have you money to support? You look sad, are ill?"

"No Polly, but I have bad news to tell you. You won't be so glad to have me here when you hear that I come to you a beggar, having lost everything."

"Why should I not be glad? If you are in trouble I am the one that should share it and if you have lost your wealth we might be worse off as I have a snug little amount in the bank that I saved from your gifts and my own earnings, for I have not been idle and we can be comfortable and happy. You are too tired tonight to tell me how it happened, so rest quiet and forget your loss."

"Her words exactly. She was right," said Jack in a mute voice.

"Oh, Polly, I can't stay here tonight, but I will tomorrow night. I must see some men now, so don't worry. I'll be back in the morning. Good bye."

Mrs. Blair never understood her husband, so said nothing and went to his ship with a heavy heart. When he was on board again he took from his pocket the penny that the old crone gave back to him with the advice, "Keep this as a talisman, when tempted by evil doing." Yes, I will keep you as I drink the bitter-sweet of life. He passed the night in a dreamy state of mind, enjoying the effect of his little play upon the vile Ninnett and the noble woman who would share life's bitterness with him, and try to rob the pain and shed sunshine upon his path.

At day dawn the ship Nancy swung around and entered her dock. Before the sun had reached its zenith, Nancy's cargo was being carted to its assignees, and so it is the precious treasures that had been designed for Ninnett were given to Polly, who stood dumbfounded by the explanation that he gave of his little joke and his confession of his folly with the beautiful Ninnett, who when she heard of his test of her love went into a frenzy of anger, shame and disappointment. She begged his pardon and tried all the follies of fascination to win him back, but all in vain.

About that time the war-dogs were howling between nations and a general unrest was felt and to please his wife he sold Nancy to the government to carry supplies, and Capt. Jack, to use his own phrase, became a Land Lubber, and spent many years in quiet enjoyment with his loyal Polly.

He was surprised one day by a visit from one of his sailor boys who brought him an educated monkey which gave him the captain great delight to watch his capers, and upon the other day, one of his boys brought him a Brazilian parrot and these two strange creatures kept the house in merriment.

The parrot enjoyed getting hold of the monkey's tail when he jumped upon her cage. The monkey would squeal and squawk and laugh and when Capt. Jack sang, the parrot would join in. Thus days passed in simple enjoyment, while Ninnett, step by step, found her level in poverty and disgrace, but her faithful Capt. Jack, and Paul Bretton turned from her as did many others.

Thus we leave Capt. Jack and Polly in the sea and yellow leaf ready to pass on from darkness to Eternal light.

HARBOR.

Fourth of July Celebration.

The Harbor has awakened from a dormant slumber not as long as Rip Van Winkle slept, and the 4th of July was represented in grand style.

The morning was devoted to mirth and physical exercises. At noon a public free dinner was served by the Ladies, who are ever in the heart of doing good. The Band gave fine National airs.

After dinner, Chas. Buzzell, after some fine introductory remarks, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Taylor, our minister, was introduced first, who gave us a cheerful talk upon love, truth and duty, and the meaning of our great day of National Independence. He was followed by Mr. Clark, who gave an oratory upon Washington's devotion to the Nation and the Conquest of 1776.

It is noted that Mr. Taylor and David A. Bradley, their co-operators could be remembered with gratitude for their zeal and untiring work to make the 4th a day never to be forgotten by the inhabitants of Fryeburg.

May those noble souls long live.

And thank you for your kindness; to those of us all a tribute bring.

Not weak in mental blindness.

The mind sees and acts from the heart. And if we live a life of duty and truth we can play in life a noble part. And age will bring to the path of youth.

ELIZABETH F. PERRY.

If Mothers Only Knew!

By Dr. True.

Nineteen-twentieths of the sickness of children have two causes: constipation and worms!

The danger of constipation is understood, but there are 50 different kinds of worms that may exist in the stomach and bowels, and children are especially apt to have them. Usually stomach and pin-worms. Signs of worms are: Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pain about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue; eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; starting during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body may be hot; and often, in children, convulsions.

Rid the child of worms and you will have a healthy, happy child.

NOTE—Dr. True's own prescription, sold under the name of Dr. True's Elixir, is the best remedy in the world for worms. It destroys all worm life, expels worms from the body and makes the child healthy again. All dealers, 35c, 50c and $1.00.

A Pleasant Birthday.
Mrs. Elsie Fogg celebrated her 88th birthday anniversary, July 6, and was the recipient of a large shower of post cards; also flowers, a mystery box which contained many articles, and a lot of pennies and last, but not least, a birthday cake with the words "Mother in gold letters." This was presented by her daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Tibbets. Many friends called to extend congratulations.
Mrs. Fogg was born in Bethel, coming to Harrison at the age of 16. She has spent the greater part of her life here and is one of the oldest residents.
She has always been a smart, energetic woman till three years ago when she fell. Since then she has not been able to walk but sits in her chair and gets from room to room by hitching the chair a little at a time.
Her mind is clear, hearing good and courage great, and she puts to shame many a person blessed with two strong limbs. She never complains but bears her trouble patiently. It is an inspiration for one who is troubled with the "blues" to call and talk with her. One is sure of a cordial welcome. She resides in her home on Front street. Increased Efficiency.

One of the most ambidextrous men that ever lived was Sir Edwin Landseer, who could simultaneously draw a dog with one hand and a stag's head with the other. Ninety-five per cent of mankind, however, are right-handed, the movements of that hand being dictated by the left lobe of the brain, owing to the crosses of the nerves in the backbone. There is such an overwhelming difference between the two lobes that the right one is compelled to do much that is impossible for the left, but anything the left can do it has borrowed from the right or learned from it indirectly.

"People who have been paralyzed on the right side by a stroke and have been reduced to dependence on the right lobe of the brain are simply incapable of doing anything with the left. As the epoch making observations of Professor Lipmann prove conclusively, in such cases the left hand, though unaffected directly by the stroke, is incapable of nearly every kind of conscious movement, its dependence on the right hand is proved conclusively.

"But experiments have shown the possibility of giving these hopeless cripples a new lease of life by exercising the left hand. Yes, strange as it may appear, such exercises will even bring back the lost power of speech. And I am convinced that in normal persons the left hand can be trained till it arrives at the same efficiency as the right, and that the right lobe of the brain can in this way be developed till it is every bit as active as the left. Such exercise is of incalculable value in mental as well as physical education.

"The ambidextrous General Baden-Powell has said: 'The value of ambidexterity from the militant point of view is most important. A man who cannot mount his horse from either side, use his weapons with either hand and shoot as quickly and surely from the left shoulder as the right.' This ambidexterity may be acquired without any very long practice.

"And the left lung and the left eye profit by this simultaneous development of both sides of the body, while it does away with that injurious lopsided position of the body which is assumed in writing and drawing. I verily believe that 50 per cent of bodily power which now lies idle can be brought into operation by the practice of ambidexterity.

one. As soon as they go to school they learn ambidexterity. Whether this accounts for the quickness of their wit remains to be proved, though I personally am convinced of it; their astonishing manual dexterity and military genius, I believe, is traceable to this alone.

"And how often does the left hand show itself to be fully the equal of the right? Look at piano playing. Is there any difference between the capabilities of the two hands? And in violin playing the delicate fingerwork of the left hand is just as important as the bowing of the right. In hand weaving, typing, cricket, the left is just as efficient. The surgeon, the dentist, is compelled to train his left.

"English teachers say their ambidextrous pupils are superior in cheerfulness, alertness and decision. The whole of the teaching goes on quicker and better with such children. Particularly interesting is the fact that after a short time of training the left hand acquires adroitness and delicacy of touch which is unknown as a rule to the right. And this may be noticed among elderly people, too. So too with artists: Leonardo da Vinci, Holbein, Landseer and Menzel were ambidextrous."

The Mother in the Home.

Napoleon declared France's greatest need to be mothers. Can anyone evade the fact that it is also America's greatest necessity?

There can be no denying that we are drifting from the old fashioned home; if only from its faults and blunders, but too largely we are renouncing its rock-ribbed virtues. Fathers are too busy and mothers are delegating their God-given tasks to the public schools and the Sunday schools.

God made a home before he made a nation. When the home is full of weakness the government is in danger. When the home is filled with impurity the social life is rotten. No church, no Sunday school, no reform agency can take the place of the home.

It is easy to criticize the modern home; yet one must go blind not to see that in these fundamental the real home is fast breaking up. I refer to the decay of parental authority. What cares the young man for civic law, who never as a boy has learned the meaning of parental law?

The real purpose of every home is not to feed the stomach or to provide beds. A real mother's business is to give her boy a character. She may give him victuals and a bed, but if she fails to give him a character she is no mother. In such a home the mother is supreme. A good man with a bad home can never make a home. A good wife with a bad husband may. The mother is the home.

Handling a Violent Bull.

Everyone has a recipe for the treatment of troublesome bulls. This advice on the subject is taken from Board's Dairyman. In the first place, bulls get usually largely because of the superabundant energy that is wrapped up in them. They ought to be made to work every day on a tread power or in some other way and get real tired. That will do more to repress their 'masculine rage' than anything we know of.

Second, if a young bull gets the notion in his head that he is boss, take him out on the meadow or where the snow is deep enough to make a fair cushion and throw him with a double loop a few times. That will put more sense of his inferiority in the hands of man into his thick head than anything we ever tried.

The double loop is made in the following manner: Take a half inch rope, say twenty feet long. Pass one end through the nose ring, leaving about six feet in front, then pass the rope between the horns. Then pass the rope around the body just back of the fore legs and make a half hitch at the back of the neck; then back to the horns, making another turn around the body just in front of the hind legs, with a half hitch at the backbone, and carry out the rope over the tail six or eight feet in the rear. Let two men take hold of the rope in front and two more on the rope in the rear and give a stout pull together, when down goes Mr. Bull as if he was shot. Hold him down by the head a few moments and let him up. Likely enough he will make a lunge at the man in front, but another slow pull brings him to his side with a bang.

Throw him two or three times in this way and it will take the conceit out of him wonderfully. You have not struck him or hurt him, nor is his anger aroused. He is simply humiliated and completely beat at your power over him. We have known of several very cantankerous bulls that were kept quite decent by an occasional dose of the double loop.

A Few Good Reasons.

Here are several good reasons for trading at home, which are going the rounds of the press, and which will apply in Norway as well as elsewhere:

I buy at home because my interests are here.
Because I want to see the goods.
Because I sell what I produce here at home.
Because I want to get what I pay for. Because I believe in transacting business with friends.

Because the man I buy from stands back of the goods.
Because the community that is good enough for me to live in is good enough to buy in.

Because the man I purchase from pays his part of the town and county taxes.

HEBRON.

The Hebron Military Band furnished music at the fireworks at the Sanitarium in the evening of the 4th.

H. L. Melcher has purchased a Maxwell runabout. Alton Conant and Mr. Melcher drove it through from Medway, Mass.

Mrs. D. A. Scribner and daughters, Mary and Ella from Brooklyn, N. Y., are spending the summer at Prof. and Mrs. Sargent's.

The neighbors of Charles Patten of Hebron, who had the misfortune to break his leg and was otherwise seriously injured in a carriage accident, June 27 turned out on mass, Monday the 7th and mowed his entire fields of over 80 acres. The following are the farmers who took part: Albert Deering, S. E. Bradford, Elmer Perkins, Frank Sturtevant, W. W. Harrington, and George H. Bean, who each furnished horses and machines. F. F. Rowe, Harry Davis, George F. Millett, L. C. Bridgman, Win. Page, Charles and Clarence Young, Ed Cloutier, A. S. Churchill, Harry Record, E. M. Keene, S. A. Campbell, Ed Dixon, Hugh Woodard, D. M. and M. L. Stone, Lee Millett, Leland Ward and Mr. Merriam, who assisted in hand mowing. Prosperous farmers of Minot were unable to be present but contributed $5 and $2 respectively. The ladies of the neighborhood furnished a picnic dinner. This came as a surprise to the Patters as they had no intimation of the days proceedings until the fields were filled with the busy haymakers.

Telephone Handy.

An elderly lady, once talking to a friend in a very confidential manner said, 'Well, we have just had a telephone put in, and say do you know it is awful handy. When a tramp comes along and asks for food I give what I think is a good meal, then when he goes, I just go to the window and see which way he is pointed then I takes up that here thing and calls up my neighbors and tells them not to give him anything to eat for I have given him all he needs for one meal.'

Save a little of thy income and thy hide bound pocket will soon begin to thrive and will never again cry with the empty belly-ache; neither will creditors insult thee, nor want oppress, nor hunger bite - nor will nakedness freeze thee. The whole hemisphere will shine brighter, and pleasure spring up in every corner of thy heart.

HE WAS RIGHT

Just plain, common horse-sense ought to teach every man that Franklin was absolutely right, just as sure as two and two make four. Creditors cannot insult you, nor can Want press you if you have prepared for them by having something in the bank; besides, your money is SAFE in the bank, not only from fire or burglars, but from your own extravagance.
